

Gaura Belleza, Dark Pink

Gardeners fondly describe this beauty as “Wand Flower,” “Butterfly Flower” or “Butterfly Bush” and is a favorite when it comes to planting in containers or landscapes.

Gaura Belleza loves sun exposure. Hence, look for a nook that exposes the plant to the sun’s heat. In fact, the plant is drought tolerant, making it a perfect choice for gardeners who don’t have enough time to water their garden.

Once it starts to bloom, it produces nectar-rich pink flowers that butterflies and bees love to feast. It attracts hummingbirds too. Surely, this plant is worth to keep. With its fast growth rate, it will make a great plant companion.